Welcome to the ABM Academy

Designed, developed and delivered by practitioners, for practitioners

Contents

The experienced Inflexion team of practitioners trained our global team of ABM-ers, our regional and industry marketers, and our marketing leadership team. We've seen real value from the training and it has helped us look differently at our marketing approach and how we engage with clients. Having a community, with everyone aligned to our goals and our way of working, has accelerated our impact.”

I'm delighted that you're considering building your skills with the ABM Academy.

For more than two decades, I've been researching and developing account-based marketing (ABM) as a marketing practice, capturing much of what I've learned in my series of books for Kogan Page.

Since 2021, I've brought together some of the best global programme leaders and practitioners in Inflexion Group to support the evolution of this marketing discipline around the world. Not only do we work with clients to solve some of the most pressing challenges in applying ABM to drive sustainable growth, we scope areas for future research, build new thought leadership, and develop the professionalism of everyone who wants a career in ABM.

Whether you decide to follow a self-directed learning path with our range of on-demand modules, attend one of our public training courses, or collaborate with us to develop a custom course for your team, we're here to help. We even offer a mentoring service for more focused and personalised career development. All of our courses lead to public accreditation, including digital credentials via Credly.

We want you, your organisation, and your customers to be successful.

Thank you for choosing to study with us.

Bev Burgess
Chief Executive

This programme has been truly transformative. I've developed the capability to design and deliver a global ABM programme in any organisation, and I'm excited to apply these learnings within my role."

At the ABM Academy, we offer a practical and results-driven learning experience. We know that ABM isn't just about theory – it's about delivering real commercial impact and measurable return on investment. That's why our courses are designed, developed, and delivered by seasoned practitioners who work every day with leading ABM teams worldwide. The Inflexion Group team has helped over 50 global technology and professional services companies drive account-based growth and trained thousands of ABM-ers around the world.

Absolutely loved how the classes were engaging, activity oriented and involved participants rather than being a one-directional flow of information.”

Avishek Chakrobarty
Head of Global ABM Centre of Excellence, Kyndryl, India

Packed with practical tools, the bootcamp provided invaluable insights into leveraging AI throughout the ABM journey – from defining account ambitions and conducting deep research to developing personalised strategies and executing data-driven campaigns for maximum impact.”

About Inflexion Group

A company focused on account-based growth, Inflexion Group was founded in 2021 by Bev Burgess, Tim Shercliff and Louise Jefferson, bringing together over 100 years of marketing, sales, operational management and consulting experience between them. Like the rest of the Inflexion Group team, they are all practitioners.

Building on our global leadership position in account-based marketing (ABM), we help companies choose the right accounts, align internally to focus on them, and engage with them through orchestrated account management, ABM, customer success and executive engagement programmes. Through our ABM Academy, we deliver comprehensive practitioner-led training pathways that equip marketing professionals with the proven frameworks and strategies they need to excel in account-based marketing.

Our goal is to help our clients build long-term relationships with their most important customers and deliver sustainable value for them and their key stakeholders. Together, the Inflexion team has helped over 50 global technology and professional services companies drive account-based growth and trained more than 10,000 marketers worldwide.
